

System for Scripture Memory Review

1. Use small cards such as those found in a rolodex or a blank business card to write out the verse to be memorized.
2. When a new verse is memorized, review it daily for one week until it is easy to remember without looking at it.
3. At the end of the week, store it in the rolodex or a box designed to hold multiple cards of the size you have chosen. Use tabs to section off verses learned within the last six weeks, and continue to review these verses weekly, each week back-filing those that have been reviewed for six weeks.
4. Continue to work your way through the verses in the back section until all are reviewed.
5. Each day you will be reviewing the verse just learned, some of the ones learned within the past six weeks, and some of your back-filed verses.
